Texas Wins 2018 Big 12 Women's Golf Championship

Dallas, Texas- The Texas Longhorns won the 2018 Big 12 Women's Golf Championship with a 54-hole score of 880 (+16). Texas became the first school to win back-to-back Big 12 conference titles since Oklahoma State won consecutive championships in 2008-09. The Baylor Bears and Oklahoma State Cowgirls tied for second with a score of 888 (+24), eight strokes behind Texas.

Iowa State senior Celia Barquin Arozamena became the first Cyclone to win the individual title with a 54-hole score of 213 (-3). Barquin Arozamena's third round score of 69 (-3) tied with Baylor junior Maria Vesga's first round 69 as the only two rounds to break 70 over the weekend.

The Longhorns rode to a team victory by placing three golfers in the top eight. Emilee Hoffman finished second after completing Friday's first two rounds at the top of the leaderboard, freshman Kaitlyn Papp finished tied for fourth and senior Sophia Schubert finished tied for eighth. The title is the fifth overall for the Longhorns.

Big 12 teams will resume play with the 2018 NCAA Women's Golf Regionals May 7-9th, and the NCAA Championship May 18-23rd at Karsten Creek Golf Club in Stillwater, Okla.
